to the e-mail address

the data currently registered in the DENIC database for the holder of the domain

.de

The applicant needs the data because the applicant

- conducts investigations as a law enforcement or tax authority, in the context of which the data is, at least with sufficient probability, relevant or evidentiary. The request is based on the following legal regulation(s):

As DENIC does not provide telecommunication services or teledmedia in the context of domain registration and administration, the provisions of the German Telecommunications Act and the German Teledmedia Act do not constitute a suitable legal basis.

- considers the domain as such or the use of it to be legally problematic and therefore intends to take action against the domain holder for the purpose of hazard prevention. An explanation of the problem as short as possible, but comprehensible, together with substantiating documents and with details of the relevant statutory provisions (or alternatively an explanation as to why such a declaration is not made) is attached.

- has an enforceable claim against  (debtor) and reason to assume that this person is the domain holder, and now wishes to assure themselves that this assumption is correct because the applicant intends, in order to enforce the claim, to garnish the claims of the debtor resulting from the domain contract by a garnishing order in accordance with the following statutory provisions:

- has issued a garnishing order against the presumptive domain holder by which the holder's claims resulting from the domain contract are garnished, and wants to assure themselves by means of the holder data that the presumptive holder actually is the domain holder. A copy of the garnishing order is attached. The information contained in the garnishing order about the claims of the applicant that are the basis for the garnishment can be blackened.

- is dependent on the data for other reasons and believes that DENIC is obliged to provide the information. An explanation as short as possible, but comprehensible, together with details of the relevant statutory provisions is attached.
